

20-in. Snow Might Happen, Keneipp Says of Parking Ban

Traffic Director George E. Keneipp was cross-examined by the Cathedral Heights-Cleveland Park Citizens' Association last night. Some of the questions and his answers were:

Q. Why did you recommend the three month snow parking ban on arterial streets when we have so little snow?

A. I am not sticking my neck out. What if we should have a 20-inch snow this winter?

Q. Why not have overhead traffic lights in order that one might see when driving behind buses and trucks?

A. Congress does not allow it and I would not recommend it.

Besides, we now have lights on both sides of streets.

Q. Why not have pedestrians cross on a yellow light?

A. Time is important there. Should a yellow light be on for a half minute, it would tie up traffic for blocks.

Q. Should not drivers be required to pass eye examinations at regular intervals?

A. Definitely yes. I do not have the facilities. Now all suspended license holders are required to take a complete examination before their licenses are restored.

Q. Is there a law to prevent cars driving up and down street-car tracks?

A. See the Police Department. Mr. Keneipp said he's afraid the American people sometimes think mechanical devices take place of common sense. They don't, he emphasized.

The meeting was conducted by Joseph A. Roney, president, at St. Alban's Parish Guild Hall, Wisconsin and Massachusetts avenues N.W.

Trial Set for Suspect After Roof-Top Chase

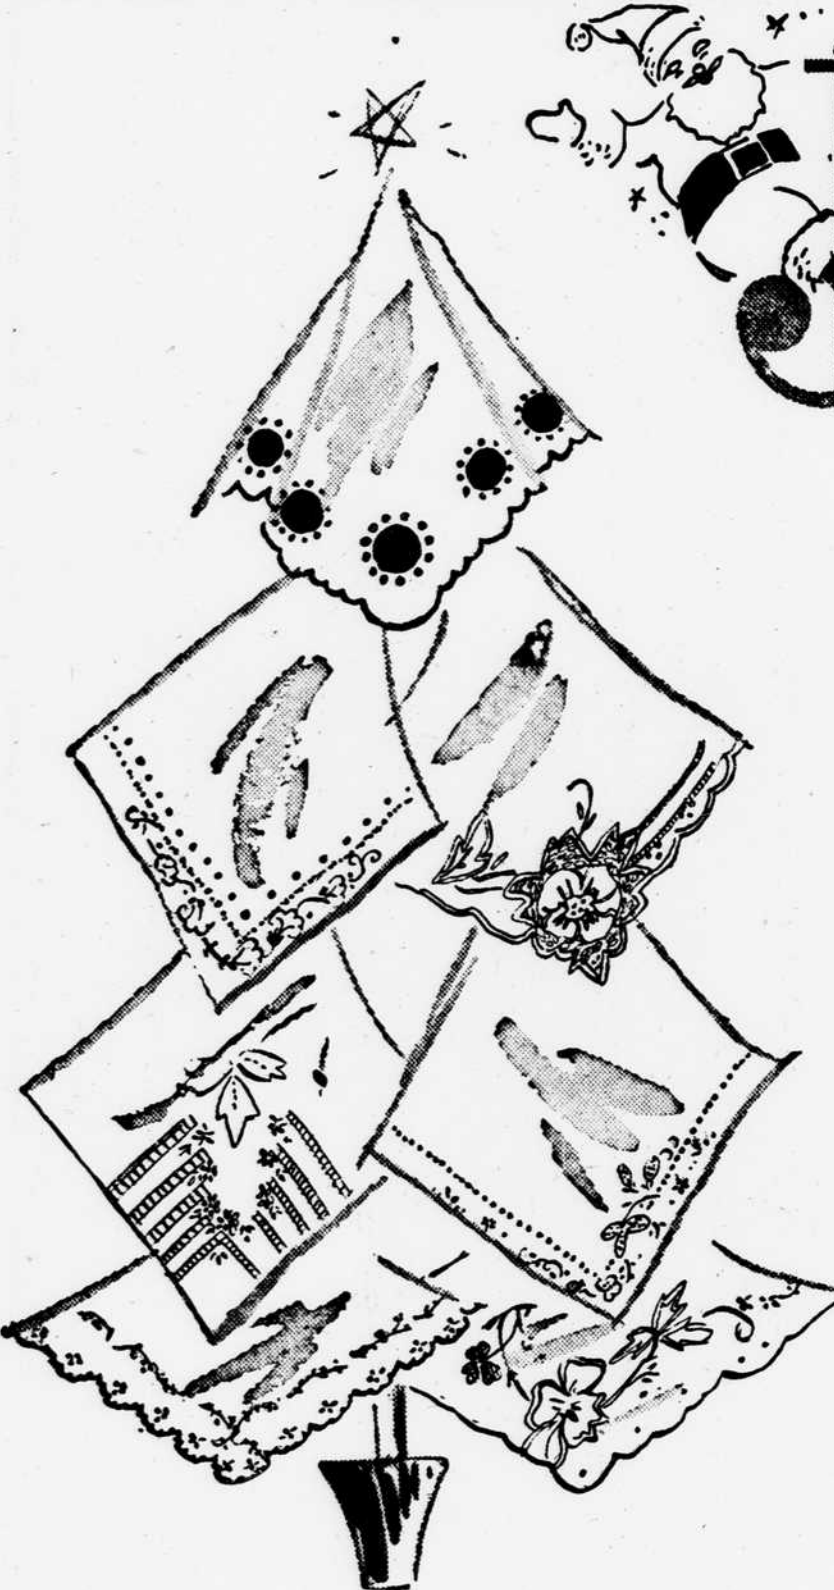

Carroll J. Judd, who was helped from a roof early yesterday by 14 policemen and a truck full of firemen, was ordered to stand trial January 30 on a charge of attempted housebreaking.

Judd pleaded not guilty before Municipal Court Judge Armond W. Scott yesterday. Bond was set at $1,000. He asked for a jury trial.

Police said Judd was seen climbing a fence at 1233 Thirteenth street N.W. about 2:30 a.m. yesterday. As the scout cars began arriving at the scene, Judd scampered up a fire escape to the roof of 1235 Thirteenth street N.W., then leaped to the roof of 1234 N street N.W., six feet below. It was still 20 feet to the ground. Judd came down when firemen of No. 3 Truck Co. raised a ladder to him.

Police interpreted the roof-top operation as an attempt to break into a building at 1235 Thirteenth street N.W.
